GETTYSBURG OIL FOR EXPLOSIVES

United States Government will Use Large Quantity from Local Gas Plant. Value of By-Product just Recently Discovered.

Five thousand gallons of oil, which for some years had been regarded as a more or less worthless by-product of the Gettysburg Gas Company plant, is now being sought for use in the manufacture of high explosives by the United States Government. Negotiations are pending and shipment of the oil will be made before long.

For a long time it has been accumulating under the gas holder at the local plant. It floats on top of the water under the holder and comes from the gas after it has passed through the refining process. It is believed now that about one hundred barrels, of fifty gallons each, have been gathered and it will be taken out by means of a siphon, barreled and then sent to the purchaser.

It was only recently that the company learned of the probable value of the material. They had a sample of it analyzed and it was found that it was of the exact quality and consistency desired by the United States in manufacturing a new high explosive, the ingredients of which were combined within a rather short period. Other gas companies have been communicated with but in most small towns there is only a small quantity on hand. Gettysburg is regarded as peculiarly fortunate in having allowed the long accumulation.

When the dealers who supply the government heard of the material being here, and of the result of the chemical analysis, an effort was made to purchase it at once but in the meantime the management of the local plant had learned its real value and the sacrificing of a highly valuable product was thereby avoided.

Some water is mixed with the oil but when it is allowed to stand overnight it quickly separates itself and can then be drawn off. After this the valuable oil can be barreled and sealed.

The new by-product is of different nature from that which has been used on the town streets. The company has considerable of the latter on hand now and have no little demand for it from other towns.

MRS. JACOB ROUTSONG

Had been Bendersville Resident for Many Years.

Mrs. Caroline E. Routsong, widow of Jacob Routsong, a well known resident of Bendersville, died at 5:30 Monday afternoon at her home after a brief illness from a complication of diseases. Mrs. Routsong was taken suddenly ill about a week ago and became steadily worse until death occurred. She was aged 74 years, 9 months, and 16 days.

Mrs. Routsong was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cline, of Cline's Church. She leaves the following children, Mrs. Lizzie Biddle, Gettysburg; Mrs. E. W. Sowers, Mrs. Edward Black, Mrs. H. M. Rice, Harry Routsong and Jonas Routsong, all of Bendersville; and Mrs. Robert Wonders, of Wilkes-Barre. Twenty grandchildren, four great grandchildren and one brother, Joseph Cline, of Carlisle, also survive.

Mrs. Routsong had been a resident of Bendersville for 52 years.

Funeral Thursday afternoon, meeting at the house at one o'clock. Services in the Lutheran church at Bendersville, Rev. Joseph Arnold officiating.

Friends and relatives will kindly regard this as an invitation to attend, without further notice.

FINE HORSE DEAD

Famous Stallion Dies at Local Stock Farm.

Joseph B. Twining's fine imported Belgian stallion, "Jean du Strau" died this morning. The animal was a mahogany bay, about nine years old, and bore license number 344. It was one of Mr. Twining's best horses on his large stock farm.

DRILL HOLE INTO FAIRFIELD STORE

And then Remove Hundred Dollars Worth of Linoleum, Dry Goods, Eggs, Butter and Jewelry. Make Successful Getaway.

Boring their way into the main room of the George Neely store at Fairfield some time during the night, thieves ransacked the entire place and got away with loot to the amount of $100 or $150. No trace whatever has been gotten of the men but it is believed that they took away their haul in a large wagon.

Entrance was first gained to the cellar of the building by breaking the lock on the outside door. It required thirty small holes to make an opening in the floor sufficiently large to allow the men to crawl through, and the work must have required many minutes. They operated quietly and were not disturbed so that they had plenty of time to go over the stock and make their choice.

Among the things selected for removal was a roll of linoleum containing 100 yards. This alone weighed about 500 pounds and would have required several men to remove. Other things taken included two cases of eggs, a quantity of lace, ribbons, jewelry, butter, cheese, graham, and crackers. The only money secured was about $3.00 in change which had been left in the cash drawer the night before.

After making their selection, the thieves evidently unbolted the door leading from the store room into the warehouse, and from there gained access into the alley where they loaded their wagon. Residents of Fairfield believe now that they recall hearing wagons in that part of town during the night, but at the time did not suspect that anything was wrong, and nothing of the burglary was known until the store was opened this morning.

Owing to the nature of the goods removed it is believed that it will not be very difficult to identify the thieves if they should try to dispose of their loot. Mr. Neely has offered a reward of $25 for information leading to their arrest, and efforts are being made to secure the services of one or more state policemen to run down whatever evidence may be available.

MRS. WILLIAM STARNER

Funeral at Mount Zion Church on Thursday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Annie Starnier, wife of William Starnier, died at her home at Starners Station, Monday night at 7:10, from heart disease and dropsy. She was aged 59 years and 12 days.

Mrs. Starnier was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Group, deceased. She leaves her husband and the following children, Harrison M. Starnier, of Starners Station; Clarence M. Starnier, Harrisburg; Rudolph U. Starnier, Mt. Holly Springs. Three sisters and three brothers survive, Mrs. Jacob Spangler and Mrs. John Hoff, of Illinois; Miss Alice Group, Gettysburg; Franklin Group, of Franklin Grove, Illinois; Tillman Group, of Battle Creek, Michigan; Jacob Group, of Biglerville.

Funeral Thursday morning at 9:00 o'clock. Services at Mt. Zion Lutheran Church, Rev. Mr. Baker officiating. Interment at Goodyear cemetery.

Friends and relatives will kindly regard this as an invitation to attend, without further notice.

AFFIRM DECISION OF LOCAL COURT

Supreme Court Sustains Judge Swope in a Case which Involved Question Having no Precedent. Judgment Affirmed.

The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania on Monday affirmed the judgment recovered in Adams County Court in January 1914 by C. W. Hendley and Company, of Baltimore, against John R. Bittinger, of Bittingers. The judgment was for $2904.81. Hendley and Company are sole agents for the Davis collieries in West Virginia.

The decision carries unusual interest with it, in that it establishes a new legal ruling, the question at issue never having been passed upon by any court in this country or elsewhere.

For a number of years John R. Bittinger had operated the quarry and stone plant at Bittingers under the name of the Bittinger Lime Company. In March 1907 he transferred the business to his sons, E. M. and L. L. Bittinger, who continued to operate under the name of the Bittinger Lime Company.

In May 1907 C. W. Hendley and Company, for the first time, sold a large quantity of coal to the Bittinger Lime Company. Several months afterward E. M. and L. L. Bittinger were declared bankrupts and their estate paid no dividends to creditors. Later on, numerous creditors of the Bittinger Company brought suit against John R. Bittinger and each of them recovered judgment against him. These suits were all based on the fact that the creditors had previously dealt with the Bittinger Lime Company, while it was owned by John R. Bittinger, and had received no notice of the transfer of the business.

In 1913 C. W. Hendley and Company brought suit against John R. Bittinger to recover the amount of the coal sold by them, although that company had not dealt with the Bittinger Lime Company when it was owned by him.

At the trial in January 1914 a jury rendered a verdict in favor of Hendley and Company. Judge Swope refused to grant a new trial and the Supreme Court has now affirmed the judgment.

Mr. Bittinger was represented by H. C. Niles, of York; C. S. Duncan, of Gettysburg; and Ehrhart and Bange, of Hanover. C. W. Hendley and Company were represented by C. J. Delone, of Hanover; William Hersh and John D. Keith, of Gettysburg.

MRS. WILLIAM UNGER

Funeral from her Home on Wednesday Morning.

Mrs. William Unger, a native and for many years a resident of Union township, died at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Sterner, about four miles from Hanover, on Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, aged 87 years, 2 months, and 21 days.

Before her marriage she was Miss Lucy Willet, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Willet. Her husband died about 20 years ago.

She is survived by four sons and one daughter, Mrs. Ellen Shriver, of near New Oxford.

Funeral on Wednesday morning at nine o'clock from her late home.

WILL SOLICIT FOR PLAYGROUND

Association Asks those who will not Contribute not to Try to Influence Others. Believe Many are for Children's Welfare.

The Kurtz Playground Association, by means of a circular letter widely distributed about town, announces that in the near future a canvass will be made to secure contributions for the maintenance of the place this summer. After pointing out the great outlays which other towns are making to secure playgrounds and the fact that Gettysburg had its institution donated the letter says:

"Mr. Kurtz expects the citizens of Gettysburg to prove for its maintenance only. The principal item of expense is the salary of a caretaker who will keep the grounds in order and who will exercise such supervision over the children that will guard against any improper language or conduct, and will make the grounds a place for the boys and girls of Gettysburg to find amusement in wholesome and healthy exercise.

"This association believes that there is in Gettysburg a sufficient number of men and women who remember their own childhood, who will contribute a sum sufficient for the proper maintenance of this enterprise and this appeal is being made to that kind.

"On the other hand there are undoubtedly some who for various reasons will not care to contribute for this purpose. We have no wish to inquire into those reasons and those who call at the various homes soliciting subscriptions will not produce argument nor comment. On the other hand we respectfully ask those who withhold their support, to likewise refrain from criticising a public spirited undertaking in which they are investing neither their sympathy nor their cash."

MILLER—STORM

Gettysburg Merchant was Married in McSherrystown.

Miss Anna L. Storm, of McSherrystown, and Leo H. Miller, of Gettysburg, were married at seven o'clock this morning by Rev. L. Aug. Reudter, at a nuptial mass in St. Mary's church, McSherrystown.

The bride wore a gown of white charmeuse and carried a shower bouquet of roses and valley lilies. Her veil was caught with orange blossoms. The maid of honor was Miss Hettie Storm who wore yellow satin, with yellow satin hat. She carried yellow roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Fannie Topper, wore a gown of mull over green satin and carried pink roses. The bridegroom's attendants were Francis E. Miller and Leo Storm. A wedding breakfast was served at the Union Hotel.

During the morning Mr. and Mrs. Miller left on their wedding trip. They will be at home at 126 East Middle street upon their return.

The bride is a graduate of St. Joseph's Academy, McSherrystown, and of Patrick's Business College, York. She has been head stenographer for Ehrhart and Conrad for the past five years. Mr. Miller is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Pius Miller, Gettysburg, and is proprietor of the West End Grocery.

OWEN C. ROBINSON

Well Known Hotel Chef Taken by Death.

Owen C. Robinson, one of Gettysburg's best known colored residents, died at nine o'clock this morning at his home on Breckenridge street from dropsy. He was aged about 53 years. For the past twenty years he had been chef at Hotel Gettysburg, his health compelling him to give up his duties about four months ago.

He was born in Gettysburg, a son of Owen Robinson, and he leaves his wife, and two children, Lettie Robinson, Pittsburgh; and Mandaleatia Robinson, at home. He also leaves three sisters, Mrs. Mary Green and Mrs. Julia Tracey, Gettysburg, and Mrs. Catharine Jackson, Washington, D. C.

He was a member of Lincoln Lodge of Elks who will have charge of the funeral which will be held from St. Paul's A. M. E. Zion church, Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. J. J. Turner will conduct the services.

CITIZENS MUST PAY FOR OILING

So Councilmen Decide at an Adjourned Session. Initial Steps Taken toward Building of Permanent Streets. Burgess Acts.

Council on Monday evening failed to sustain the attitude taken at their last meeting and decided to place oil and tarvia on the streets of town where property owners pay toward the expense. The idea expressed earlier in the month was that the borough should pay the entire cost but this method, it was stated Monday night, is not followed in any other town in this section and would entail too great a drain on borough resources.

Mr. Gilbert reported having ordered a carload of road oil at 6 1/2 cents a gallon. Mr. Stock said oil that would answer the same purpose could be purchased at three cents, plus freight from Ohio. The highway committee was instructed to purchase for trial purposes fifteen or twenty barrels of oil such as Mr. Stock recommended.

For having the streets oiled property owners will be expected to pay four cents a front foot on the narrow streets, and six cents on the wide streets, or $1.20 and $1.80 for a thirty foot lot. This will pay about two thirds the cost of the oil, while the borough will pay for preparing the streets and making the application.

The question of the permanent improvement of the streets was brought up during the evening and Messrs. Keith, Gilbert, and Dougherty, with Borough Attorney Swope, named to go to Harrisburg to ascertain from the State Highway Department what aid could be secured from them. As all the main streets of Gettysburg are on the state road system, it is believed that there will be little difficulty in the construction of the new roads. Councilmen brought up the liability of the transit company to pay for their share of such paving and it was stated that they could be compelled to do so. Failing to comply, it was stated, would result in the borough's having the privilege of tearing up the tracks.

Burgess Eicholtz's plan of having a red electric call light for the night police in the middle of Centre Square met with the approval of council and he was given authority to have it placed. The Burgess was also given authority to collect all licenses, and, in response to a discussion of councilmen, stated that persons violating the automobile speed laws would be dealt with summarily.

A lengthy discussion was held on the merits of the Board of Health's conduct of quarantines for minor diseases. Mr. Keith was of the opinion that council could not pass ordinances inconsistent with State acts and could not interfere with regulations passed by the local board, provided that they were more stringent than the provisions of the State Board regulations. The committee which is to make the trip to Harrisburg about the borough roads will be expected to visit Health Commissioner Dixon relative to the attitude taken on the twenty one day quarantine for minor diseases and the using of the time of report rather than the onset of the disease for dating quarantines.

The sewer committee was instructed to take the steps necessary to prevent people from emptying sewage into the open sewer which enters the Tiber. The method suggested is to plug shut all such entrances.

Robert S. Bream asked for a crossing on West Middle street at Seminar Ridge. Councilman Baughman moved that a four foot concrete crossing be laid there and then carried the motion, being the only member voting.

WITH THE FIREMEN

Held Short Session to Transact their Business.

The firemen Monday evening decided to ask the local amateurs to put on "Incog" in the near future as a benefit show. Jesse E. Snyder and James B. Aumen were named as additional members of the committee to solicit funds for apparatus.

Make Your Old Tableware Like NEW

If you have any old tableware that you have thrown aside because it is not fit to use, rather it up and send it to me. I will replate it for you.

Don't use rusty, worn out tableware when you can have it plated as good or even better than when you bought it new, at such a small cost as I ask you to plate it.

There is no fake about this plate. It is not a cheap mercury solution that will wash or rub off. But it is a genuine, honest, durable, heavy plating, which I will guarantee to wear for years.

Egg, Sulphur or Natural Gas does not affect this plate, while it is a well known fact that these as well as dampness will readily tarnish the best silver plate.

This new process of plating I am prepared to do, does not tarnish. It cannot be made to scale, crack or peel off. And at the same time it has all the brilliancy and beauty of the best sterling silver goods. It will not rust nor corrode, and can be washed, cleaned and polished at any time.

ROOSEVELT JURY QUICKLY CHOSEN

Barnes and Colonel Face Each Other in Libel Suit.

MAY CALL WITNESSES TODAY

The Ex-President is Expected to Bare Political Secrets During Trial of $50,000 Suit.

Syracuse, N. Y., April 20.—Seven Republicans, three Progressives and two Democrats constitute the jury in William Barnes' $50,000 libel suit against Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, which opened in this city.

They will determine if Colonel Roosevelt, in a published statement last July, to the effect that Mr. Barnes and Mr. Murphy were the invisible government that made for an alliance between crooked business and crooked politics, meant to say that Mr. Barnes was personally corrupt, or was merely whacking at bad government.

These are the issues of the case as simply as they can be put. William M. Barnes, senior counsel for Mr. Barnes, contended in this opening address this morning that Colonel Roosevelt's statement was maliciously personal and that he must be made to pay in hard cash.

John M. Bowers, senior counsel for the ex-president, bared the Roosevelt defense when in a motion to dismiss the case he argued that Colonel Roosevelt never declared that either Mr. Barnes or Mr. Murphy obtained personal gain from their control of the "invisible government," and that Colonel Roosevelt's language did not necessarily import personal corruption.

Mr. Bowers' motion to dismiss on the ground that the statement was not libel per se, and that, even if it was libel per se, it was subject to an innocent construction, was offered to Supreme Court Justice William S. Andrews after the jury box had been filled.

Justice Andrews promptly denied the motion and cleared the ground for the real opening of the case. There were little murmurs of surprise when Mr. Bowers explained that Colonel Roosevelt had never meant to charge that Mr. Barnes was a boss for profit only, or that he made "invisible government" pay rich dividends.

Some persons jumped to the conclusion that the colonel was backing water and that the request to dismiss was an indication that he wasn't nearly so full of fight as he looked.

It can be said, however, that this view of the preliminaries is far from the truth. The Rough Rider has come to Syracuse full of fight and if Justice Andrews permits intends to open a lot of secret doors and rattle many old skeletons in Republican politics.

The following is the jury: Henry Hoag, Republican, clerk; Irving J. Mills, Republican, woodworker; Walter J. Zulle, Progressive, manufacturer; Franklin S. Rhodes, Republican, farmer; Leonard K. Hungerford, Progressive, painter; F. W. Pierce, Republican, carpenter; Warren W. Somers, Republican, grocer; Ray Tanner, Democrat, farmer; John W. Brown, Republican, farmer; George E. Boschert, Progressive, manufacturer; Edward Burns, Republican, mortician, and Peter Benek, Democrat coal dealer.

TO COMMAND THE TURKS

Field Marshal Von Der Goltz Place in Supreme Control.

Constantinople, April 20.—Field Marshal Baron Kolmar von der Goltz has been appointed commander-in-chief of the First Turkish army.

Field Marshal von der Goltz recently returned to Constantinople from a trip to Berlin. In the early part of the war he served as military governor of Belgium, and in January was sent by Germany to Constantinople to assist in directing the Turkish army, which he had reconstructed in earlier years.

WILL GIVE UP BELGIUM

Some Surprising Statements Expected From Germans.

Amsterdam, April 20.—The Cologne correspondent of the Tijd, discussing peace conditions, says:

"There is no serious thought in competent circles in Germany of retaining Belgium. Within a few weeks some surprising statements on this matter may be expected. Leaders of German opinion are now agreed that the aim of the war will have been reached as soon as Germany's national existence is guaranteed and her colonies secured."

GARROS, AVIATOR, CAPTURED BY GERMANS

Hero of Many Thrilling Air Duels Made Prisoner.

Berlin, April 20.—Roland Garros, the famous aviator, who won a lieutenant in the French army soon after the war began by heroic feats he performed against German airmen, has been made a prisoner by the Germans.

It was officially announced that Garros was captured at Ingelmunster, a town of Flanders, about eighteen miles north of Lille. He was making a raid behind the German lines when he was brought down.

Garros was one of the most famous French aviators at the time the war broke out. His hold upon the imagination of his countrymen is illustrated by the fact that immediately upon the beginning of hostilities he was credited with having performed a feat which all French airmen had aspired to perform in the event of a war with Germany—on Aug. 2 Garros was said to have rammed and destroyed a Zeppelin in midair.

GAMBLING RIGHTS FOR VILLA

Will Receive Concessions If Carranza Is Overthrown.

New York, April 20.—General Francisco Villa will receive the gambling concessions in Mexico City and the race track privileges at Juarez as his portion of the spoils in the reconstruction of Mexico, planned by the belligerent forces that will put General Felipe Angeles in the president's chair.

This admission was made by one of the Mexican expatriates in New York city as he discussed the future of his country.

These concessions will make Villa the proprietor of the American Monte Carlo and consequently one of the wealthiest men in the war-ridden republic.

He has made demands and they have been granted. He is satisfied to let anybody run the affairs of state so long as he is undisturbed in his gambling privileges in the capital and at the American border.

Villa, according to this Mexican exile, is a curious mixture. He has about every strain of blood known to the republic running through his veins. He is part Indian, Spanish, colored and a few others.

Villa is cruel to the rich, whom he kills and robs without the slightest compunction. The money stolen from the haughty dons Villa turns over to the poor for their aid and comfort, and with the poor Villa measures just a trifle short of a god.

Jitneys Win Virginia Suit

Richmond, Va., April 20.—Jitney busses won a victory in the state courts when the application of the street railway company here for an injunction to prevent the operation of the jitneys without franchises as common carriers was denied. The railway company itself is operating busses while an appeal is in progress.

Indian Kills White Girl

Shawnee, Wis., April 20.—Miss Mary Dickson, postmaster at Keshena, the official agency of the Menominee Indian reservation, was shot and killed by an Indian, James Wapoose, a rejected suitor. Wapoose then fired two shots into his head. The shooting occurred while Miss Dickson was out buggy riding with another young man.

Japan Calls Warships Home.

ENVOYS READY TO QUIT ITALY

Austria Regards War in Near Future Inevitable.

TROOPS CLASH ON BORDER

It Is Said Italian Soldiers Repulsed Austrian Patrol Guards and Crossed the Frontier.

London, April 20.—A Copenhagen dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company says it is reported from Vienna that war between Austria and Italy is regarded as inevitable in the near future. The staff of the Italian embassy in Vienna is preparing to leave.

Italian troops who were fired upon by Austrian patrol guards repulsed the attacking party and made an incursion into Austrian territory, according to courier dispatches from the vicinity which escaped censorship.

The messages indicate that a miniature battle between the Austrians and Italians has taken place in the passes. The Austrians, it is stated, when denied a passage, fired upon the Italians. How far the Italians penetrated into Austrian territory is not stated.

It seems to be universally agreed that the tension between Italy and Austria is approaching the breaking point. It is suggested that the Italian foreign office is awaiting an ultimatum from Vienna on Italy's military preparations along the frontier.

The alertness with which every move made by Italy is followed in London indicates the high importance attached to the efforts to bring Italy to the fighting line.

Austrian Attacks Halted

Petrograd, April 20.—Austrian attacks on the heights of the Mezolabor district of Hungary, where the Austrians for six days have been furiously attempting to regain positions recently taken by the Russians, appear to have definitely subsided.

The following official communications concerning the progress of the campaign was issued from general headquarters:

"At the beginning of March, in the principal chain of the Carpathians, we held only the region of the Dukla passes, where our lines formed an exterior angle. All other passes, of Lupkow and further east, were in the hands of the enemy.

"The enemy opposed a most desperate resistance to our offensive. They had brought up every available man on the front from the direction of Bartfeld as far as Uzsook pass, including even German troops and numbers of cavalrymen fighting on foot. The enemy's effectiveness on this front exceeded 300 battalions (300,000 men). Moreover, our troops had to overcome great natural difficulties at every step.

"To sum up: On the whole Carpathian front, between March 19 and April 12, the enemy has suffered enormous losses and has left in our hands in prisoners alone 70,000 men, including about 900 officers. Further, we have captured thirty guns and 200 machine guns."

Young Women Get Male Companions to Shore When Boat Upsets.

Sunbury, Pa., April 20.—Miss Alberna Smith and Miss Adda Bachman, John Houseman and Paul Behlisch were rowing in a small skiff in the Susquehanna when the boat capsized in ten feet of water.

The young women were able swimmers and could help themselves, while their companions could not swim. Miss Bachman guided the upset boat to the men, who were struggling in the water, while the other young woman helped them seize hold of it. The young men clung to the skiff while the two young women swam and towed it into shallow water.

Clear Swoboda of La Touraine Charge

SAYS LIBERTY IS OUR ONLY CONCERN

President Declares the U. S. Must Keep Peace.

Washington, April 20.—The Congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution convened in the national capital.

The feature of the opening session was an address by President Wilson, who extolled the "judicial temperament and made a plea for national self-possession and control in these war times."

He declared that the true essence of American government was human liberty, and this must never be lost sight of amid all the excitement and vicissitudes of temporary politics.

The only tradition of a nation that is worth having is one that has practical energy in it, he added, and no form of government should be allowed to stand merely because it has come down to us from our forefathers. This was especially true, he stated, when it obstructed the work of exalting human liberty. He declared he did not doubt the United States would cast aside the democratic form of government when it found a better one.

"America forgets what she was born for," said the president, "when she does exactly the way every other nation does—when she loses her recollection of her main object, as sometimes nations do, and sometimes perhaps she herself has done, in pursuing some immediate and transient object. I ask you to rally to the cause which is dearer in my estimation than any other cause, this is the cause of righteousness as administered to by those who hold their minds quiet and judge according to principle."

Gun Accident May Kill Capitol Page

Pottsville, Pa., April 20.—John S. Styles, of near Pottsville, a page in the state legislature, was probably fatally shot accidentally by his father while endeavoring to unload a pistol which the son brought to him just when about to leave home to take a train for Harrisburg. The bullet passed through his stomach and punctured the intestines in fourteen different places.

GREAT DAMAGE

Houses and Barns Burned as Result of Forest Fire.

The forest fires, which have been raging in the South Mountains, continue unchecked, although hundreds of men are fighting them.

Two barns and a dwelling house near Jefferson, Frederick county, were destroyed by the fire Monday night. One was owned by Clarence Hemp, who also lost his home. George Siner owned the other barn. At the Hemp farm, one of the daughters of the owner heroically rushed into the barn when she saw the flames approaching and released the cattle, driving them to a place of safety. A short time afterwards the barn was destroyed.

A large house owned by John Hays, of near Wolfsville, was destroyed by the fire. Mrs. Hays, who was away from home, upon noticing the approaching fire remembered that her infant was lying in bed on the second floor of her home. Rushing to her residence, she ran up stairs, snatched the baby in her arms and then hurried to a place of safety. A few moments after she left the house, it was in flames.

CROWN PRINCE IS RUMOR'S VICTIM

He's Been Dead, Disgraced and Insane Several Times.

EVERYTHING BEFALLS HIM.

But After Being Buried Twice Kaiser's Heir Is Still Very Much Alive Back at Front From Cheering Princess Cecile in Berlin on the Birth of Their Fifth Child.

If the Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm has kept a diary of the various things that have "happened" to him since the war began parts of it must be amusing reading to him.

As gathered from the dispatches his diary must run something like this:

Aug. 1.—Appointed to the command of the First division of the Imperial guards.

Aug. 5.—Attempt made to assassinate him in Berlin. Assailant both succeeded and failed in his attempt.

Aug. 19.—Seriously wounded in battle; taken to a hospital in Aix-la-Chapelle.

Aug. 20.—Shot in the leg in Berlin when a second attempt is made to assassinate him.

Aug. 24.—Because of his growing popularity with army and nation he is exiled to the Russian front for the remainder of the war.

Aug. 24.—Leads his army in the defeat of the French at Longwy.

Aug. 25.—Killed by a mysterious attack. "It is thought by frenzied Germans."

Aug. 26.—Decorated by the Kaiser with the Iron Cross and becomes internationally famous by the "Prinze Wilhelm" letter of commendation for his work as a soldier.

He Commits Suicide.

Sept. 4.—Commits suicide after men of his command fire on and kill a large number of men in a German detachment.

Sept. 8.—Leads the Imperial guard on the western part of the French front when the Germans meet defeat at the hands of the British.

Sept. 11.—Appointed to the command of the German army on the eastern battle front to drive the Russians from East Prussia.

Sept. 12.—Leads his army in a furious assault on the defenses of Verdun in France.

Sept. 13.—Dies from his wounds in a Brussels hospital. His brother Adalbert dies in the same hospital.

Sept. 14.—Directs his army when it opposes a strong attack by the French in the Argonne.

Sept. 15.—Leads another attack on the outer fortifications of Verdun.

Sept. 16.—Dangerously wounded in East Prussia by Russian shrapnel while he is watching the battle.

Sept. 28.—His army loses 100,000 men in France.

Sept. 28.—"Authoritative report" that he had been seriously wounded in action on Sept. 6.

Sept. 30.—Looted the chateau in the Argonne belonging to the Baronne de Boye.

Is Twice Buried.

Oct. 2.—Dangerously wounded in a battle near Nancy and the crown prince and her children hurry to the front to be with him.

Oct. 11.—Meets the crown princess in Luxembourg, whither she has gone to confer decorations.

Oct. 24.—Berlin mourns at his funeral. Nov. 2.—His funeral procession again passes through the streets of Berlin.

Nov. 4.—Killed in a battle near the Franco-German border.

Nov. 6.—Worry of the campaign has brought on insanity and he is sent to one of the royal family's remote estates.

Nov. 11.—Commands the German center army in an advance against the Russians.

Nov. 12.—Appointed commander in chief of the allied German-Austrian armies operating against the Russians.

Nov. 17.—He is lying seriously wounded in the Strassburg palace.

Dec. 1.—Receives an American newspaper man at his field headquarters in France and talks of the war.

Jan. 10.—Crown princess accompanies him from Berlin to the front.

Retired in Disgrace.

Jan. 16.—Identified as the masked patient of royal rank who is lying in a critical condition in a small German base hospital.

Jan. 30.—Sends a formal message to the United States asking for fair play for Germany.

Feb. 9.—Appointed to command the Fifth German army on the western front.

March 3.—Removed from command in disgrace and retired to a secluded family estate.

March 19.—Killed after a quarrel by a member of his staff.

March 19.—Takes part in a war conference attended by the Kaiser and the German general staff.

March 25.—Suffering from a nervous breakdown in a private nursing home near Potsdam.

March 29.—Leaves the front for a stay with the crown princess in Berlin.

April 7.—The Crown Princess Cecile presents him to throne with their fifth child, their first daughter. Prince hurries to Berlin.

April 12.—Crown princess sends husband back to war and congratulations of his army.

HUERTA'S RETURN UPSETS MEXICANS

All Factions Keep Close Eye on Former Dictator.

DECLARE HE IS POWERLESS

But Firmly Believe That "Personal and Family Business," the Reason He Gives For Coming Back to America From Spain, Forebears Attempt to Regain Authority in Mexico.

When General Victoriano Huerta, the expelled dictator of Mexico, landed at New York he denied that he had come from his refuge in Spain to seek to regain his former power. He had come merely on personal and family business, he said.

All the same, many of his friends seem firmly to believe that he is back for the purpose of re-entering the imbroglio in Mexico to try to re-establish himself now that he is sure Carranza has lost the backing of the United States and has failed. But if that is his intention Huerta had not been long in New York city before he found himself completely cut off from affiliation with any of the four most important political organizations in Mexico—the Villistas, Carranzistas, Felicistas and the Clericals.

"There is no chance for him to re-establish himself in Mexico," says Carlos de Forno, Carranza adviser and chief publicity agent, and Colonel Alfredo Brededa, General Carranza's private secretary, who is in Washington on a diplomatic mission.

"If he goes into Mexico and Villa catches him the same thing will happen to him that happened to Licencio de Bonales Sandoval—Villa will shoot him," declared a prominent Villista.

Has Alienated Strong Men.

"He has alienated himself from every 'strong man' in Mexico," said the most important member of the Felicista party now in New York city.

While all Mexican political factions agreed that General Huerta could not start a revolutionary movement in Mexico that would assume any importance, they were all, with the exception of the partisans of General Felix Diaz, uneasy about his presence in America. Detectives were set to watch the one time dictator in the interest of the Carranzistas, the Villistas and the Felicistas.

Only the Clericals seemed to take little interest in General Huerta's presence.

Carlos de Forno said no one knew positively what General Huerta's "personal and family business" here might prove to be, and there were many who thought such a term might very well cover an attempt to regain the presidency of Mexico, since that was a very "personal and family" affair for Huerta.

Agents for the department of justice were also sent to the Hotel Ansonia, where General Huerta is staying in New York with his companions, Abraham Z. Ratner and Colonel Jose Delgado, the deposed dictator's secretary. The general paid little heed to these attentions. Whenever he passed the men on his way to go for an automobile drive about the city he smiled at them genially.

Diaz "Not Interested."

General Felix Diaz happens also to be in New York, but did not appear to be worried by Huerta's arrival.

"He is not at all interested in General Huerta or what General Huerta can do," said one of General Diaz's important men. "He knows that the one time dictator can do nothing. He has alienated himself from every man who could help him. Nobody will have anything to do with Huerta now. There is no man of importance in Mexico who would affiliate with any Huerta movement."

"General Huerta came here in answer to an appeal from a certain benevolent grower of Yucatan," Carlos de Forno asserts. "He was asked to head the Augustine revolt and was on his way to Yucatan. When he arrived in New York city he found that the revolt had been quelled."

"The scheme was to buy munitions in the United States, purchase a yacht or a small schooner and make a landing at Belize or somewhere along the coast of Guatemala. They hoped to gather an army sufficiently strong to break the Carranza power in Yucatan, Campeche and Quintana Roo and to form a small republic of those three states with Huerta at its head."

Friends of Villa admit that they regard the Huerta trip to the United States as menacing, so far as Mexico was concerned, but say they hoped that he would go into Mexico, for they wanted to see "Villa catch him."

Enrique C. Florento, Villa's confidential agent at Washington, states that the Villa government will take formal steps seeking to have the United States deport Huerta on the ground of being the murderer of President Francisco Madero.

"Clean Up and Paint Up"

All Together for a Better Hometown

Real Campaign Is Taking Place of Old Time "Clean Up"

"ANNUAL BATH" FOR TOWNS TABOOED.

Five Thousand Communities Will This Year Join "Clean Up and Paint Up" Movement.

MORE than 5,000 cities and towns will this year participate in "opening weeks" in the National Clean Up and Paint Up campaign, according to Allen W. Clark, chairman of the National "Clean Up and Paint Up" Campaign Bureau, St. Louis. Many of these communities, Clark declares, are thus breaking away from the old established "clean up" or "annual bath" idea and are striving to make their improvement programs continuous performances.

Flies in the bureau's offices, which indicate that the organization has in reality become a national clearing house for the dissemination of community betterment ideas, show that last year more than 2,000 cities and towns made an effort to "clean up and paint up." "This year," commented Chairman Clark, "it looks as though we would co-operate with more than 5,000 communities, in each of which some live civic leader is trying to improve living conditions. Though a majority of these campaigns will start with an 'opening week,' a definite program of activity, we know that the bureau's success has been chiefly due to the fact that we try to get away from the old-fashioned 'annual clean up' idea that has become odious to many civic leaders and an annual joke in many cities. The plans of the bureau call for continuous campaigns that bring permanent results and help form worth while civic habits."

The Work to Be Done.

The work of the bureau this year is more comprehensive than ever before. Everything that will beautify, preserve, improve sanitation, reduce fire risks, and better health conditions has been carefully provided for. Among the things which local "Clean Up and Paint Up" campaigns are doing this year are: Cleaning the streets and alleys, front yards, back yards, cellars, stables, attics; the removal of ashes and rubbish; cleaning up vacant lots of rubbish and weeds; eliminating breeding places of flies and mosquitoes; planting and care of trees, hedges and flowers; and the liberal use of paint on everything that needs it.

It is this constructive, permanent nature of the improvements effected that has won the endorsement of national leaders in every branch of civic uplift work. Among those serving this year on the National Bureau's advisory committee are: Mrs. Clarence Baxter, Kirksville, Mo., chairman of the Women's Committee of the National Bureau, is also vice chairman of the civics department of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and chairman of the civic and health department of the Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs. Dr. S. J. Crumrine, Topeka, Kan., president of the Association of State and Province Health Officers of North America. H. S. Buttenheim, New York, editor of "The American City." Clinton R. Woodruff, Philadelphia, secretary National Municipal League and editor of the "National Municipal Review." Mrs. Philip North Moore, St. Louis, ex-president National Federation of Women's Clubs. William Woodhead, San Francisco, president of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World. P. S. Kildsade, Washington, D. C., executive secretary American Forestry Association. Richard B. Watrous, Washington, D. C., secretary American Civic Association. Mrs. Geo. Zimmerman, Fremont, O., chairman of the civics department, General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Paint and Self-Respect.

The one most important factor in spreading the gospel of cleanliness, thrift and civic pride, which the Bureau is trying to do, is the work of newspaper editors throughout the country, asserts Chairman Clark. For instance, here is what Paul Brown, editor of The St. Louis Republic, has to say of the movement:

"Thousands of American cities and towns have taken up the National 'Clean Up and Paint Up' campaign that originated in St. Louis three seasons ago. It has been endorsed by thousands of civic, commercial and women's organizations all over the nation. The cities that have made themselves a part of the movement are cleaner and better cities because of it. The Republic aided in launching the initial campaign and is glad to know that the Federation of Women's Clubs is planning a general St. Louis campaign for this spring. This will aid in making 'St. Louis the Healthiest City' for paint is the great preservative and a powerful aid in sanitation. Add to beauty and economy the fact that paint has a sanitary value, and the arguments apply with added force to the big cities. Naturally the paint dealer profits by such campaigns. None but the pessimist will object to this. He gives value received and more. The house that is painted is the better for it. A neighborhood that has cleaned up and painted up is a better one in which to live. Paint makes for self-respect and justifiable pride."

In the office of the National "Clean Up and Paint Up" Campaign Bureau hangs a room-size wall map, with every state dotted by red stars denoting cities conducting campaigns last year. And so it is true that civic leaders in thousands of towns are working to "get their town on the map" this year.

SYNOPSIS.

Christopher Bellew, a tenderfoot, starts for the Klondike in a gold rush and pluckily works at the back breaking toil of packing freight.

He meets a beautiful girl, Joy Gastell, deserts his own party, and he and Shorty, a new acquaintance, hire out to two wealthy prospectors. Joy has nicknamed him "Smoke."

Smoke and Shorty befriend a man named Brock and nearly perish in attempting to cross Lake Lebarge because of the uselessness of their employers.

Smoke and Shorty take command by force and get through to Dawson City, where they are discharged. On Brock's tip they stampede for Squaw Creek.

They overtake Joy Gastell and her father. To help the Sea Lion crowd Joy treacherously leads them away from Squaw Creek.

Smoke saves the girl's feet from freezing. He and Shorty by mistake jump a miner's claim and lose it. Then Smoke finds Surprise lake, the bottom of which is covered with gold.

Smoke is shot at, witnesses the murder of a miner by the unknown marksmen and is arrested for murder himself. Brock shows a Surprise lake nugget, the impromptu coat is stamped, and Smoke's life is saved. Smoke wins money at roulette.

CHAPTER IX.

Shorty Dreams.

"FUNNY you don't gamble none," Shorty said to Smoke one night in the Elkhorn. "Ain't it in your blood?"

"It is," Smoke answered. "But the statistics are in my head. I like an even break for my money."

All about them, in the huge barroom, arose the click and rattle and rumble of a dozen games, at which for clad, moccasined men tried their luck. Smoke waved his hand to include them all.

"Looks at them," he said. "It's cold mathematics that they will lose more than they win tonight—that the big proportion are losing right now."

"You're strong on figures," Shorty murmured admiringly. "An', in the main, you're right. But they're such a thing as facts. An' one fact is streaks of luck. The only way to win at gambling is wait for a hunch that you've got a lucky streak comin' an' then play it to the roof."

"It sounds simple," Smoke criticised, "so simple I can see how men can lose."

"The trouble is," Shorty admitted, "that most men get fooled on their hunches. On occasion I sure get footed on mine. The thing is to try an' find out."

Smoke shook his head. "That's a statistic, too, Shorty. Most men prove wrong on their hunches."

"But don't you ever get one of them streaky feelin's that all you got to do is put your money down an' pick a winner?"

Smoke laughed. "I'm too scared of the percentage against me. But I'll tell you what, Shorty. I'll throw a dollar on the high card, right now, and see if it will buy us a drink."

Smoke was edging his way in to the faro table when Shorty caught his arm.

"Hold on! I'm gettin' one of them hunches now. You put that dollar on roulette."

They went over to a roulette table near the bar.

"Wait till I give the word," Shorty counseled.

"What number?" Smoke asked.

"Pick it yourself. But wait till I say it be go."

"You don't mean to say I've got an even chance on that table?" Smoke argued.

"As good as the next geezer's."

"But not as good as the bank's."

"Wait an' see," Shorty urged. "Now! Let her go!"

The gamekeeper had just sent the little ivory ball whirling around the smooth rim above the revolving, many slotted wheel. Smoke, at the lower end of the table, reached over a player and blindly tossed the dollar. It slid along the smooth green cloth and stopped fairly in the center of "34."

The ball came to a rest, and the gamekeeper announced. "Thirty-four wins!" He swept the table and alongside of Smoke's dollar stacked $35. Smoke drew the money in, and Shorty slapped him on the shoulder.

"Now, that was the real goods of a hunch, Smoke! How'd I know it? There's no tellin' I just knew you'd win. Why, if that dollar of yours'd fell on any other number it'd won just the same! When the hunch is right you just can't help winnin'."

"Suppose it had come double naught?" Smoke queried as they made their way to the bar.

"Then your dollar'd been on double naught," was Shorty's answer. "They's no gettin' away from it. A hunch is a hunch. Here's how. Come on back to the table. I got a hunch, after pickin' you for a winner, that I can pick some few numbers myself."

"Are you playing a system?" Smoke asked at the end of ten minutes, when his partner had dropped $100.

From idly watching Smoke become fascinated, following closely every detail of the game from the whirling of the ball to the making and the paying of the bets. He made no plays, however, merely contenting himself with looking on. Yet so interested was he that Shorty, announcing that he had had enough, with difficulty drew Smoke away from the table.

The gamekeeper returned Shorty the gold sack he had deposited as a credential for playing and with it went a slip of paper on which was scribbled "Out—$350." Shorty carried the sack and the paper across the room and handed them to the weigher, who sat behind a large pair of gold scales. Out of Shorty's sack he weighed $350, which he poured into the coffer of the house.

"That hunch of yours was another one of those statistics," Smoke jeered. "I had to play it, didn't I, in order to find out?" Shorty retorted.

"Never mind, Shorty," Smoke laughed. "I've got a hunch right now!"

Shorty's eyes sparkled as he cried eagerly: "What is it? Kick in an' play it pronto!"

"It's not that kind, Shorty. Now, what I've got is a hunch that some day I'll work out a system that will beat the spots off that table."

"System?" Shorty groaned, then surveyed his partner with a vast pity. "Smoke, listen to your side kicker an' leave system alone. Systems is sure losers. They ain't no hunches in systems."

"That's why I like them," Smoke answered. "A system is statistical. When you get the right system you can't lose, and that's the difference between it and a hunch. You never know when the right hunch is going wrong."

"But I know a lot of systems that went wrong, an' I never seen a system win." Shorty paused and sighed. "Look here, Smoke, if you're gittin' cracked on systems this ain't no place for you, an' it's about time we hit the trail again."

At last, after long hours and days spent at watching the table, the night came when Smoke proclaimed that he was ready, and Shorty, glum and pessimistic, accompanied his partner to the Elkhorn. Smoke bought a stack of chips and stationed himself at the gamekeeper's end of the table. Again and again the ball was whirled and the other players won or lost, but Smoke did not venture a chip. Shorty waxed impatient.

"Buck in, buck in!" he urged. "Let's get this funeral over! Got cold feet?"

Smoke shook his head and waited. A dozen plays went by, and then suddenly he placed ten one-dollar chips on "26."

The number won, and the keeper paid Smoke $350. A dozen plays went by, twenty plays and thirty, when Smoke placed $10 on "32." Again he received $350.

"It's a hunch," Shorty whispered vociferously in his ear. "Ride it; ride it!"

Half an hour went by, during which Smoke was inactive; then he placed $10 on "34" and won.

"A hunch!" Shorty whispered. "Nothing of the sort," Smoke whispered back. "It's the system. Isn't she a dandy?"

Smoke now altered his play. He bet more frequently, with single chips scattered here and there, and he lost more often than he won.

"Quit it," Shorty advised. "Cash in. You're rung the bullseye three times, an' you're ahead a thousand. You can't keep it up."

At this moment the ball started whirling, and Smoke dropped ten chips on "26." The ball fell into the slot of "26," and the keeper again paid him $350.

"If you're plumb crazy an' got the immortal clutch bet 'em the limit," Shorty said. "Put down twenty-five next time."

A quarter of an hour passed, during which Smoke won and lost on small scattered bets. Then, with the abruptness that characterized his big betting, he placed $25 on "00," and the keeper paid him $875.

"Wake me up, Smoke; I'm dreamin'," Shorty moaned.

Smoke smiled, consulted his notebook and became absorbed in calculation. He continually drew the notebook from his pocket and from time to time jotted down figures.

A crowd had packed densely around the table, while the players themselves were attempting to cover the same numbers he covered. It was then that a change came over his play. Ten times in succession he placed $10 on "18" and lost. At this stage he was deserted by the hardest. He changed his number and won another $350. Immediately the players were back with him, deserting again after a series of losing bets.

"Quit it, Smoke; quit it!" Shorty advised. "The longest string of hunches is only so long, an' your string's finished. No more bullseyes for you."

"I'm going to ring her once again before I cash in," Smoke answered.

For a few minutes, with varying luck, he played scattering chips over the table and then dropped $25 on "00."

"I'll take my slip now," he said to the dealer as he won.

"Oh, you don't need to show it to me," Shorty said as they walked to the weigher. "I been keepin' track of your bets."

POPULAR MECHANICS

Mounting Largest Telescope.

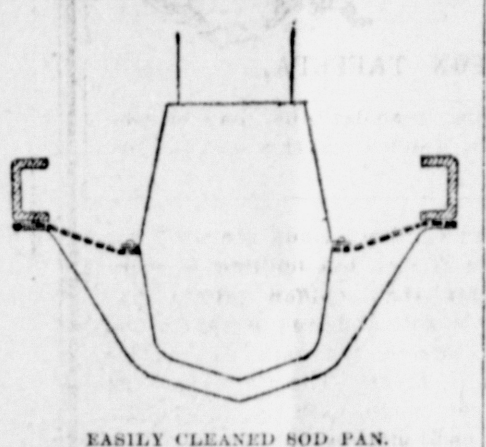

The last annual report of the Mount Wilson observatory states that all the larger parts of the mounting for the 100 inch reflector, which will be much the largest telescope in the world, will probably be assembled at the Fore River shops, where they have been constructed, in time to permit shipment to Pasadena via the Panama canal early this year, says the Scientific American. Meanwhile the smaller parts and accessories have been under construction at the observatory. The driving clock, which is nearly completed, required more than half a ton of bronze castings and nearly a ton and a half of iron castings, in addition to the two ton driving weight. The circular steel building for this instrument is complete up to the rails which are to carry the dome. The latter has been built in Chicago and is about finished. The building and dome will probably be completed next summer so that the mounting may be set on the pier in the autumn. Meanwhile good progress has been made with the capital task of grinding and figuring the great mirror.

The Pigment Lithopone.

Lithopone is produced by mixing solutions of zinc sulphate and barium sulphide. The resulting precipitate consists of zinc sulphide and barium sulphate. It is filtered off, heated to a high temperature and dropped into water, whereby it is thoroughly disintegrated. It is washed and filtered again, dried and ground. All of these operations require a good deal of care and attention to produce a satisfactory pigment. Lithopone is very stable and is probably the whitest pigment known, being very widely used in high grade enamels. Exposed to light and dampness it darkens, but will often regain its whiteness again. It is therefore not suited to outside use by itself, but needs to have a large amount of sensible pigment combined with it.—Engineering Magazine.

Improved Automobile Sod Pan.

The usual type of sod pan used in automobile construction is fastened to the frame side members of the car and passes under the engine crank case, as shown by the full line in the sketch, says Popular Mechanics. This is not only a very heavy and expensive construction, but the pan often jars loose and must be removed from the chassis

when being cleaned. The sod pan substituted is shown by the dotted lines and simply consists of metal sheets, fastened on one side to the flange of the lower crank case and on the other to the frame side members of the chassis. This construction is cheap, very light and can easily be cleaned. The lower part of the crank case is exposed, but the dirt collected on it can be easily removed without disturbing the sod pan.

New Tailgate Spark Plug.

A novel type of spark plug for internal combustion engines has been invented by a British company, says the Scientific American. The plug has a tubular central electrode, which carries a block of quartz serving the purpose of a window through which one can observe the "color" of the explosion in the combustion chamber. A dark purple spark shows the mixture to be correct; a light blue or white explosion signifies that it is too weak, while a red color indicates too rich a mixture. By simply detaching the quartz "window" and substituting a milled nut the plug is transformed into a "priming" plug, through which gasoline can be injected directly into the combustion chamber.

Fish Oil in Paints.

Menhaden, or fish oil, is used in special paints which are required to stand heat and light, as on smokestacks. Such a paint is considerably more expensive than a linseed oil paint, so it can be seen that menhaden oil is a valuable aid and not an adulterant, as of ten claimed. Proper treatment of the oil is very expensive, as the loss by evaporation is large and certain volatile products are formed which are very offensive to the workmen. Mixed with linseed oil it is used to some extent for making waterproof paints for various purposes and seems to give good satisfaction.—Engineering Magazine.

Inflation of Automobile Tires.

It is no doubt a fact that more tires are ruined through under inflation than from all other causes combined, says Automobile Dealer. If one would keep his tires inflated to a pressure of eight or twenty pounds to every inch of cross section of the tire he would be quite free from blowouts. Even during the hot weather this pressure should be maintained, as it has been conclusively proved that the extra pressure caused by friction is so small it need not be considered. But care must be taken to see that the tubes are of the best quality, for in reality the tube is the "heart" of the tire.

Wrong Treatment.

HELPFUL HINTS FOR HOUSEWIVES

Sanitary Garbage Can That Is Hidden From View.

There is a new garbage receptacle that supports the pail on a stand at a point where it cannot be readily reached by roving animals, and in addition to this it guards it from becoming accidentally knocked from its proper place. When the bucket is in its place the outfit is concealed behind a semi-circular shield which closes on a hinge at one side and is supplied with a locking device on the other side. This shield not only protects it from view, but also keeps water from it, which is extremely desirable from a sanitary point of view.

Kitchen Helps.

To prevent the gravy soaking through the bottom crust of meat pies brush over the crust with white of egg.

After frying onions pour a little vinegar into the frying pan, let it get hot and it will remove all smell from the pan.

When washing coarse clothes use soft soap, as it will go further than the ordinary yellow and is more efficacious.

Do not leave wooden tubs to dry or they will quickly crack and come apart. Keep a little water always standing in them.

When baking custard pies put one-third teaspoonful of baking powder in custard. It makes it nice and firm.

LEO FRANK LOSES APPEAL

U. S. Supreme Court Decides Against Slayer.

PARDON HIS ONLY HOPE

Fulllest Rights Were Accorded the Prisoner in Georgia Courts, Opinion of Highest Tribunal.

Washington, April 20. — Leo M. Frank, the Brooklyn man under death sentence for the murder of Mary Phagan, an Atlanta factory girl, lost another step in his fight for life in the supreme court of the United States. In a decision, to which Justice Holmes and Justice Hughes dissented, the court dismissed Frank's appeal from the federal court of Georgia, which refused to release him on a writ of habeas corpus.

Frank contended that alleged "mob violence" at his trial and the fact that he was absent from the court room when the jury rendered its verdict had removed him from the jurisdiction of the courts of Georgia.

The majority opinion of the supreme court rejected all these contentions and declared Frank had enjoyed all his legal rights in the Georgia courts.

Seemingly no other avenue of escape from the death penalty is open to Frank through the courts. The state pardon officials might relieve him.

Justice Pitney, in the majority decision, stated that the obligation rested upon the supreme court to look through the form and into the very heart and substance of the matter, not only of the averment in Frank's petition, but in the trial proceedings in the state courts themselves.

Frank to Seek Clemency.

Atlanta, Ga., April 20. — Leo M. Frank's attorneys, when informed of the decision of the United States supreme court said that they believed that every means in Frank's behalf before the courts now had been exhausted.

They added that they now probably would prepare a petition for presentation before the Georgia prison commission, asking for commutation of Frank's sentence.

"I am very much disappointed over the supreme court's decision, but I will keep up the fight," said Frank. He refused to add to that statement.

The mandate of the supreme court is expected to be received by the federal district court in Atlanta in a few days. Upon its arrival Solicitor General Dorseley probably will request that Frank be arraigned before the Fulton county superior court for re-sentence.

CANADIAN WINS MARATHON

Eduard Fabre Finishes First in 25 Mile Race.

Boston, April 20.—Coming from the rear, Eduard Fabre, of the Richmond Athletic club, of Montreal, a contender in several previous contests, won the nineteenth marathon of the Boston Athletic association.

His time was 2 hours, 31 minutes and 41.5 seconds, as against the record of 2 hours, 21 minutes, 18.1 seconds, made by M. J. Ryan, of New York, in 1912.

Clifton J. Horne, of Dorchester, was second; Sidney H. Hatch, of the Illinois Athletic club, Chicago, third; Hugh Honohan, of the New York Athletic club, who set the pace for 21 miles, fourth; E. H. Byrnes, New York fifth, and George McInerney, of Philadelphia, sixth.

The course of the race was from Ashland to Boston, a distance of 25 miles. No previous winner was included in the list of sixty-four starters.

MOTOR KILLS W. W. WUNDER

Secretary of State Firemen's Association Dies Soon After Accident.

Reading, Pa., April 20.—William W. Wunder, for thirty years secretary of the State Firemen's association and former councilman of this city, died in a hospital from a fractured skull.

The fatal accident to Mr. Wunder was caused when he was struck by a motor car driven by Joseph Rothermel, a farmer of Leesport, near the Reading postoffice. Mr. Wunder was sixty-five years old and is survived by a widow and daughter.

Mr. Wunder was crossing the street when the touring car struck him. He was picked up and hurried to the hospital, where an operation was performed immediately. Rothermel went to the police station and gave himself up. He said that his brake had refused to work.

GERMANS FORCED TO GIVE GROUND

British Begin Pressure on the Teuton Lines.

London, April 20.—The pressure of the allies along the battle front in France and Flanders has been resumed the offensive by the British and French forces has been hurled against the German lines with success.

Already the French forces have directed a severe and concentrated attack on the positions of the Germans in Alsace and in Lorraine, and they are now driving toward the Rhine, in German territory.

For the second time within the past month the British have delivered a concerted onslaught along their front to the north of Ypres, in northern France, and here, as at Neuve Chapelle, they have made some substantial gains, says an official statement issued by the British war office.

This report tells of the capture of important positions in that section of the front running toward the North sea and the complete repulse of all German counter attacks to recapture their lost trenches and commanding positions.

For two days this violent battling continued. At times it was of hand-to-hand order and the British forces were able to take many prisoners after the trenches had been stormed and the hill captured. The German losses, according to the official statement, were severe, while the British suffered heavy losses.

While the British have been active for the past three days in that sector of the battle front, the French have been pressing their advantage along the border of Alsace and Lorraine and this activity is gradually increasing to the proportion of a general offensive which has for its object the occupation of the lost provinces. The Teuton resistance in this region is stubborn, but in the face of this resistance the republic's forces are making steady progress.

Baron De Reuter Commits Suicide.

THE FIRST FRUIT.

BREAKFAST MENU.
Baked Apples.
Boiled Eggs. Corn Muffins.
Tea, Coffee or Chocolate.

SINCE the garden of Eden days the apple has been the fruit most taken for granted. We utterly fail to realize its culinary and digestive value because it is so common. However, the apple is a brain stimulant, being rich with phosphorus, and the malle acid of the fruit is a great germ destroyer.

The Baked Apple.

Then there is the baked apple, which either may accompany the dinner proper or be served as a dessert or served as the fruit course for breakfast. This may also be varied in a number of ways. The best apple to select for baking is a tart, unripe apple or one that has not become mellow. They retain their shape better and when cooked have a jellylike consistency because of the large amount of pectin in an unripe apple.

Remove the core from the apple, fill up with brown sugar and bits of lemon, dust over with grated nutmeg and bake until the slump jellies.

Apple Croquettes.

Make a pint of tart apple sauce, using but a dessertspoonful of butter and water. Place in a double boiler and cook until the apple seems dry. Mix one-third cupful of cornstarch and add to the sauce with a pinch of salt. Cook fifteen minutes; before removing add a well beaten egg, whipping it as it cooks. Place the mixture in a wet mold or dish and allow to cool. Drop a teaspoonful of the mixture into fine, dry breadcrumbs, then into beaten egg and lastly into bread crumbs. Fry until brown in deep fat. Drain and serve with fowl or roast pork. Spice or lemon flavoring may be added.

Apples In Connection With Cereals.

Apples and rice are delicious. The rice may be served with the plain sauce or baked in a pudding dish, a layer of the cereal alternated with a layer of tart apples. In the same manner that the old fashioned Brown Betty is made. Many are fond of apples with their oatmeal in the morning. Apples may be added to rice and custard puddings and pies. Apple rice balls are perhaps the most delicious of the cereal concoctions.

Apple Balls.

Cut four pieces of cheesecloth about six by six inches and wash and dry them. Spread each piece with a layer of washed, uncooked rice; then the pared and quartered apples. Draw the corners together to form a bag. Cook in rapidly boiling water for thirty minutes, remove and allow to cool for several minutes. Serve either with hard sauce or vanilla cream sauce. This dish rivals the old fashioned apple dumpling and has to be tried to be appreciated.

Anna Thompson.

Currant Pudding.

Cover one quart of cleaned red currants with water and let them boil till the juice has been well drawn out. You may help by mashing berries with a spoon; then strain liquid. You will have about one and one-half quarts of juice. To this add two cupfuls of sugar and six even teaspoonfuls of corn starch, dissolved in cold water. Stir while it thickens and until it's done, which takes only a little while if you use a saucepan instead of double boiler. A little piece of stick cinnamon may be added while cooking. Put into an earthen (not tin) mold and serve ice cold with sugar and cream.

First in Resurrection.

In some districts of India the eastern parts of cemeteries are regarded as the most desirable. The choice is based on the belief that the dead in the eastern section will be the first to leap from their graves, brush the dust from their bones and proclaim their readiness to ascend.

His Mascot.

Which is the most significant motor car mascot? I think the palm goes to the one that a doctor friend of mine has had put on his car. He is a very good doctor, but his mascot is the ace of spades. It is nailed on the front of the bonnet as a memento mori to all men. Spades—and a doctor!—London Express.

Too Witty for the Lawyers.

A man was excused from a jury on his plea that he was a pharmacist. The next man asking to be excused said he had a similar reason, for he was a "farm assistant." He was not excused, but he got to hear no cases. The lawyers were afraid of him. He was too witty.

Too Much Honor.

Mildred was spending a day with a neighbor who had prepared a dainty luncheon table for the occasion. When Mildred was informed luncheon was ready and arrived in the dining room she stopped, with a look of amazement in her face and exclaimed: "Oh, Mrs. S., don't put all your finery on for me."

Dressing His Majesty in Style.

Too many babies are dressed to kill. Clothing should keep the baby comfortable and not sweltering. With proper nourishment he has a very good heat-producing equipment of his own and it is not only unnecessary but distinctly harmful to coddle him with more clothing than he can comfortably stand.

The Great Moral Force

Advertising is one of the great moral forces of the day.

It has revolutionized business methods and let daylight into the dark places.

It has banished the doctrine of "Let the buyer beware."

It has made it possible to lower prices by incresing sales.

It has done as much as any single factor to forge America to the front as a commercial nation.

Each advertisement in this newspaper is a constructive message well worth the attention of readers.

HARRISBURG MAN IS NOW HAPPY

I. E. Beckwith Says Wonderful Remedy Gave Him Great Help.

I. E. Beckwith of Harrisburg, Penn., was a victim of disorders of the stomach and intestinal tract. He tried treatment after treatment. Nothing gave him relief.

Then one day he discovered Mayr's Wonderful Remedy—and soon was happy.

Mr. Beckwith wrote to Geo. H. Mayr, the maker of the remedy and for twenty years the leading druggist of Chicago.

"I believe that Mayr's Wonderful Remedy is the greatest stomach remedy on earth. One dose would convince any one who is troubled with its stomach of its wonderful merits. It removed some of the most awful looking stuff from my stomach. I have taken other remedies, but they never helped me."

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist now and try it on an absolute guarantee—if not satisfactory money will be returned.

SUFFERED 15 YEARS CURED IN 21 DAYS

Many Cures Reported Daily in Towns Where It Is Known.

The wonderful cures that are being made by this remarkable new remedy are almost beyond relief.

A young lady from Ottumwa, Iowa, for many years suffered from a bad case of eczema. Her face was a sight to behold; all covered with red blotches, pustules and pimples. So unsightly was her appearance she gave up all social life. Failing to find relief with doctors and remedies, she became despondent and discouraged. After a few weeks' treatment with liquid and ointment the scaly redness disappeared, pustules healed and she was entirely cured. A few months following her mother wrote that Amolox had done wonders for her daughter, and she was married last week.

This is only one of the many cases that are being reported in towns where Amolox has been introduced and its merits have become known. Amolox Ointment will quickly banish pimples, blackheads and all minor skin troubles. Bad cases of Eczema, Psoriasis, Tetter, and skin diseases lasting for years, should use both ointment and liquid to effect a cure. Trial size, 50c. Guaranteed by The People's Drug Store.

Boomerang Advice

By SARAH BAXTER

"Dearest," said George Harding the day after the return from their honeymoon as they were opening their accumulated mail at the breakfast table, "here's a letter from Charlie Webster. I wrote him while on our journey how transcendently happy I was."

"You didn't leave me out, did you, love?"

"Oh, certainly not. Charlie writes that he is envious of me and wishes I would tell him how I got you. He says he has been waiting for several years for some nice girl to show a preference for him, but thus far there's nothing doing."

"Nothing doing? I should think not. Does he suppose a girl is going to make love to him while he sits nodding? When you write him again tell him that he must have decision, concentration."

"What do you mean by that?"

"I mean this: The first girl he sees that he feels he'd like to marry let him show his admiration in his expression. If he has been introduced he may do this in one way; if not, in another. Should he meet her in the street or in company he should pursue her till he has learned who she is, then never let up till he has made her acquaintance. We women like to be hunted. It gratifies our pride."

Now, George Harding's business led him to be much on the road. A few days after his return from the wedding journey he gave his wife a couple of dozen kisses and started on a trip. He had enjoined her to go out when ever she had an opportunity, and since she was not only a devoted autoist, but an excellent driver, she attempted to kill loneliness by afternoon spins into the country. On one of these spins her machine stopped in the middle of the road and, like a balky mule, would go no farther.

The first auto that came along was driven by a gentleman, who pulled up, lifted his cap and asked if he could be of service. Mrs. Harding was a very pretty woman, and the troubled look that appeared in her liquid eyes was enough to soften a heart of brick. The gentleman's eyes expressed admiration in a marked degree. He left his car beside the road and proceeded to make an investigation of the lady's vehicle. Finding that the trouble would compel its removal by outside power, he proposed to secure a rope and pull it to a garage. Anything he suggested was acceptable, and after a hunt for a stout rope in the houses along the road the attachment was made and the journey commenced, the man driving his car, the lady at the wheel of hers. Reaching a garage, her car was left there, and the gentleman begged permission to drive her home.

Mrs. Harding had received admiration in her day, but never anything so suddenly developed as this. It was plain to her that her new found admirer was taking her home by a roundabout way, the necessity for which he attributed to the roads. After an hour's drive that could have been done in ten minutes they pulled up at the Harding residence, the stranger helped the lady out, and, after thanking him for his kindness, she ran up the steps.

The next afternoon what was her surprise on looking out a front window to see her car stop at her door, driven by the gentleman who had rescued her at the wheel. He sprang out, came up to the house and rang the bell. She opened the door herself and received the announcement from her admirer's lips that, fearing she might wish for her car, he had brought it home to her. In recognition of so much kindness what could she do but ask him in? He gladly accepted the invitation and, seated tete-a-tete with her, spent an hour in bliss for himself and in reflecting credit for the lady. Though recently married, she had not yet got used to turning away the devotion of another man than her husband. When her visitor departed his eyes expressed such a longing to be permitted to call again that Mrs. Harding could not refrain from giving it.

When George Harding returned from his trip his wife casually mentioned her automobile mishap, but, fearing to excite his jealousy, refrained from entering into particulars. Charlie Webster informed his friend that during his absence he (Charlie) had put in practice Mrs. Harding's advice and had profited by it. Indeed, he was plucking up courage to offer his love to a lady and ask her to be his wife. The proposition might seem sudden, and he expected to be refused, but he would act on Mrs. Harding's advice and stick to it.

A few evenings after this George Harding left his wife for a short time. When he returned what was his surprise to see his old friend, Charlie Webster, sitting in the drawing room with Mrs. Harding. She appeared to be a bit rattled, and the two men looked at each other in astonishment.

"This is the gentleman," said the wife, "who was so kind to me when my car broke down."

There was an embarrassed silence for a few moments, when Harding said:

"And you, Charlie, have found a lady to your taste. I wish you success." And, with flashing eyes, he turned on his heel and went upstairs.

There was a triangular soreness over the matter for some time, but eventually Webster was excused since he had acted upon the advice of Harding.

MOTHER TELLS HOW VINOL

Made Her Delicate Boy Strong
New York City.—"My little boy was in a very weak, delicate condition as a result of gastritis and the measles and there seemed no hope of saving his life. The doctor prescribed cod liver oil but he could not take it. I decided to try Vinol—and with splendid results. It seemed to agree with him so that now he is a strong healthy boy."—Mrs. THOMAS FITZGERALD, 1090 Park Ave., N. Y. City.

Medical Advertising AN EASY WAY TO END CATARRH FOREVER

Simple Home Treatment Destroys Germs of this Dangerous Disease.

The air is always full of catarrh germs thrown off by one person and absorbed by another and when your system fails to throw off such germs they find permanent lodgement in the nose, throat and head and multiply rapidly. You must kill these germs before you can cure catarrh.

The germs of catarrh can be best destroyed by inhaling the pure medicated air of Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me). This splendid and powerful combination of oil of Eucalyptus with other healing agents has a wonderful germicidal action. You breathe its air into your nose, throat and lungs by means of a small hard rubber inhaler which The People's Drug Store and other leading druggists here in Gettysburg and vicinity supply with every treatment. This medicated air is certain death to the germs of catarrh and drives them completely out of your system, and when the germs are destroyed the catarrh with all its disagreeable symptoms will stop. As Hyomei is pleasant to breathe and is always sold by druggists everywhere with a positive guarantee of successful results or money back, surely no Catarrhal sufferer should go long before trying this simple home remedy.

Don't Be Pennywise

JIM Brown he built a house of wood and thought the job was pretty good, but Smith he used the best cement when he put up his tenement. And in ten years Brown's shack was old; it let in rain and snow and cold; while Smith lived snug, secure from sleet, inside his house, still trim and neat. Jim soon learned 'twas pennywise the age of progress to despise; while Smith lived on in great content, because he built of firm cement. (The Cement Era.)
